ABOUT THE DEPARTMENT

The Department of MCA started in 2001, has experienced members of faculty and well-equipped laboratories. The main objective of the department is to produce talented software engineers to satisfy the competitive industrial needs. The Department has organized nine National Conferences and many workshops successfully. Based upon the current Industrial growths, the department organizes various workshops and seminars periodically.

ABOUT THE WORKSHOP

- ✓ This Workshop aims to enlighten the participants who wish to enhance their programming skills in the area of Python and take up their own project.
- ✓ Enable the participants to develop Web applications on their own and to train them to use Python with MYSQL.
- ✓ Enhance the participant's technical career towards the new technological developments that happens in the industry.

PYTHON:

Python is a widely used high level programming language for general purpose programming, created by Guido van Rossum and first released in 1991. An interpreted language, Python has a design philosophy that emphasizes code readability and a syntax that allows programmers to express concepts in fewer lines of code than might be used in languages such as C++ or Java. It is used by thousands of people to do things from testing microchips at Intel, to powering Instagram, to building video games with the PyGame library. Python features a dynamic type system and automatic memory management and supports multiple programming paradigms and procedural styles. It has a large and comprehensive standard library. Django is a high-level Python web framework that enables rapid development of secure and maintainable websites. It is free and open source, has a thriving and active community, great documentation, and many options for free and paid-for support.
